

WESTERLY AND VICINITY

Death of Col. James F. Brown, at North Stonington—
Unnecessary Fire Alarm—Granite Contracts Skip
Westerly For Connecticut Quarry—St. Michael's
Boys to Camp at Wyasseup Lake.

Col. James Franklin Brown, a resident of prominence in North Stonington, died Tuesday morning after five weeks' illness, at the Brown homestead at North Stonington, in his seventy-sixth year. He was prominent in republican politics and in Grand Army affairs.

Colonel Brown was graduated from Yale college in 1862 with the degree of A.B. and in 1865 was honored with the A.M. degree. Soon after graduation from Yale, on August 15, 1862, he enlisted in G company, Twenty-first regiment, infantry, Connecticut volunteers and was commissioned captain of the company September 3, 1862. He was promoted to be major October 12, 1864, and to lieutenant colonel October 18, 1864. When mustered out, June 16, 1865, he was in command of the regiment.

Very soon after being mustered out of the military service, he engaged in the wholesale grocery business, 1865 to 1878, and then retired from active business life and returned to the old homestead in North Stonington, where he died.

Mr. Brown was for many years a member of the republican state central committee and was a member of the legislature, 1884 to 1889. He was a member of the state board of agriculture since 1899, and served as secretary of the board since 1900. He was connected with Hancock post, G. A. R. of Westerly, department of Connecticut, and a member of the Congregational church in North Stonington. Mr. Brown was married to George Coggeshall and Sarah Ann Stanton Brown and was born in North Stonington January 10, 1835. He married Harriet Alma Green at Portmouth, R. I. October 1, 1868. He leaves a widow, one son, James Franklin Brown Jr. of North Stonington, and four daughters, Mrs. Harriet E. Beckett of Stonington, Mrs. W. E. Dawson, Jr. of Savannah, Mrs. Frank M. Bindloss of Mystic and Miss Bessie A. Brown of Hartford.

Fire alarm was sent in from the box corner of Cross and Hobart streets, No. 35, at half-past nine Tuesday morning, and three minutes later the cyclone apparatus started for the fire, closely followed by the Rhode Island One and the Alert Hook and Ladder company. It was a long and needless run, for when the firemen reached the cause of the alarm they found a chimney fire, and while this was being subdued some excellent person ran to the nearest fire box and pulled in the alarm.

Bollesiam Weitzorek, who was arrested on the charge of beating his wife, Walleria, was given a hearing before Judge Williams in the Third district court. After hearing the testimony, Judge Williams remarked that he did not know whether it was best to send the accused to jail for six months or eleven months or to give him a fine. Weitzorek broke in and pleaded pitifully for the release of her husband, who was arrested upon her complaint. She declared he was a good provider for her family and that if freed he would never beat her any more.

Judge Williams suspended sentence and placed Weitzorek on probation, with orders to report to the court weekly, until relieved of probation. Then the Weitzoreks, husband and wife, departed for their home in John street, he vowing that he would lead a better life, and she believing that he meant just what he said.

Carloads of granite pass through Westerly from the east as well as from the west almost daily, while the industry here is not flourishing when compared with the times that Westerly was a granite center. The quarry at Stony Creek, Conn., for a new church and parish house in Fall River, is even worse than carrying costs to Newcastles. There are fine granite quarries in Massachusetts, as well as in Rhode Island; still the granite used on these jobs comes from Connecticut. In these days, when rebating is a serious cost of freightage must be greater from Stony Creek to Fall River, than from Westerly, which is over forty miles nearer Fall River. The quality of the Westerly granite is fully as good, if not better, and the price would be naturally lower, and the contracts of this nature come to Westerly.

A free but not advertised exhibition of Wild West broncho riding was given in the Welch circus lot, Tuesday afternoon. Wheeler, the horseman, has thirty or more horses of all descriptions in this lot, including several broncho ponies, unbroken to saddle. Mr. Wheeler desired to take three of these ponies away and concluded to

WHAT MOTHERS SHOULD KNOW

We believe all mothers should know that Cuticura soap and ointment afford a pure, sweet and most economical treatment for itching, burning infantile humors, eczemas, rashes and irritations which, if neglected, often become chronic and cause a lifetime of misery because of pain and disfigurement. A warm bath with Cuticura soap, followed by a gentle application of Cuticura ointment usually brings immediate relief, baby sleeps, worn-out, worried parents rest and peace falls on a distracted household.
